Senate Hearings Recess, Program Seen Expedited

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) today exhorted Americans to "spend our days and nights" in an effort to pull ahead of Russia in missiles and space science.

Johnson said an inquiry into the U.S. space weapons program indicates "we now face a situation which, in some respects is comparable to Pearl Harbor."

The Texas senator, who also is Senate Democratic leader, heads the Senate Preparedness subcommittee which last night recessed its hearings until Jan. 6.

"It is up to all Americans to work as though there will never be a tomorrow and everything must be done tonight," he said. "We have a long way to go and we must start at the earliest possible moment."

Sees Program Expedited

Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire, senior Republican on the subcommittee, said he thinks the missile and satellite programs have been accelerated by the group's investigation.

"We have made progress but there is a lot of work to be done," he said in a separate interview. "We have laid the facts before the public and the people know where we stand. Now we must get on from here."

The subcommittee heard testimony last night that development of one type of 1,500-mile-range missile had been delayed by a cutback in funds last August.

Maj. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, Air Force missile chief, testified that an economy order of last August, which was not rescinded until November, slowed down work on the Thor.

He and Lt. Gen. Clarence Irvine, Air Force deputy chief of staff for materiel, agreed that progress on the Thor was nine months ahead of the Army's 1,500-mile Jupiter. Both missiles were recently ordered into production.

Schriever told the subcommittee "you could get to the moon by 1959" with ballistic missile hardware now being produced in this country. He said the Atlas, Thor, Jupiter and Polaris missiles "all make perfect boosters" for a moon satellite.

Limited Test Successful

The Atlas is an intercontinental ballistic missile designed to travel up to 5,000 miles. An Atlas underwent a successful, although limited test yesterday at Cape Canaveral, Fla. The Polaris is a 1,500-mile-range missile being developed by the Navy.

Schriever spoke of a future family of ballistic missiles he said would make presently planned long-range missiles "look Model T's."

Last night Cross' headquarters announced that six locals had been placed under trusteeship and taken out of the hands of local officers. They are Locals 6 and 492, Philadelphia; 50 and 51, New York; 84 in Newark and 118 here.

The locals have about 15,000 members in all. The new group claims it has allegiance of about 50,000 of the original union's 132,000 members.

Conway said "no attempt at trusteeship will be acknowledged." But he added nobody had yet shown up at any of the six locals to try to take over as a trustee.

The Senate Rackets Committee developed testimony last summer that Cross made personal use of union funds and obtained loans from employers with whom his union bargains.

British Writer Dies

LONDON (INS)—Dorothy L. Sayers, creator of the widely-read Lord Peter Wimsey mystery novels, died last night at her home in nearby Witham, Essex County. She was 64.

Rain General In East Area

Wet weather — rain, sleet or snow — appeared in prospect for the major part of the country today.

A broad belt of precipitation extended from the central Plains eastward through the Ohio Valley, southward into Arkansas and Tennessee and northward into Lower Michigan. It was expected to spread northward into the Great Lakes region, with snow in Northern areas and freezing rain in the central Great Lakes.

Rainfall amounts in most areas were light, with drizzle reported in most sections except in the East, where rain was general. Rain mixed with snow along with freezing rain was forecast in parts of Pennsylvania and New York. Rain also was the outlook southward through North Carolina.

U. S. Gains Victory On A-Missile Bases

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate rackets hearings turned today to new allegations of a payoff to "fix" a criminal case in Tennessee.

Glenn W. Smith, Tennessee Teamsters Union boss, refused to say whether any part of an alleged $18,500 payment by his union went to Judge Raulston Schoolfield of Chattanooga to kill a conspiracy indictment against Smith and 12 other Teamster officials. Smith invoked the Fifth Amendment against possible self-incrimination.

The investigating committee headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) announced it would explore this case more deeply, then shift to another said to involve allegations of a payoff. The committee gave no details of the second case.

Shuns Propers' Bid

McClellan invited the Criminal Court judge to attend the hearings and reply to any derogatory testimony mentioning him. Kennedy said the opportunity is still open, but that his last word from the judge was that Schoolfield did not plan to come to the hearing.

In Chattanooga, Schoolfield said he had no comment on the testimony.

"I don't want to appear reluctant to comment," he said, "but I want to have a chance to read all that was reportedly said at the hearing before making any statement."

Summonsed for questioning today was Hubert L. Boling, secretary treasurer of Chattanooga Teamsters Local 515.

Boling was one of 13 defendants, all officials or members of Local 515, who had been charged with conspiring to commit violence in a labor dispute. In 1953, Judge Schoolfield ordered a jury to acquit 12 of the 13 defendants. The 13th had left the state and never was tried.

The previous year, Schoolfield had dismissed the indictment against the 13, but the Tennessee Supreme Court reversed this ruling and ordered the case tried.

Raymond Hixson of Hixson, Tenn., testified that Boling told him two days before the indictment against the 13 Teamsters was quashed that $18,500 had been passed for this purpose "and there's not going to be any trial."

Hixson, a deputy state fire marshal, said there was "quite a bit of talk" that Schoolfield got the money. But Hixson claimed no first-hand knowledge of any payoff.

Missile Target Base Use Story Denied By Army

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army says it has no plans to use either Ft. Sill, Okla., or Ft. Bliss, Tex., as missile test target areas.

Such a possibility was discussed Monday by two Army generals. In response to an inquiry at the Pentagon yesterday, a spokesman said: "The Department of the Army staff has no plans for using Ft. Sill or Ft. Bliss as an impact area for missiles fired from other Army areas."

In a speech at Altus, Okla., two days ago, Brig. Gen. John C. Hayden said the Army is seeking land near Ft. Sill which would be used as an impact area for missiles to be launched from Ft. Bliss and other points.

Atom Power Use Started

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Duquesne Light Co. announced today that the United States' first full-scale nuclear power plant at nearby Shippingport, Pa. began feeding electricity into Duquesne Electric lines today.

A Duquesne Light spokesman said the plant began generating electricity at 12:39 a.m. (EST). The nuclear reactor at the plant, located along the Ohio River about 25 miles northwest of Pittsburgh, has been in operation several days, but today marked the first time the plant has generated electricity for use by Duquesne's customers in this region.

British Papers Give Hagerty Horse Laugh, Irked At Ribbing

LONDON (AP)—Several British newspapers today gave a loud horse laugh to U.S. presidential press secretary James Hagerty, the former newspaperman who couldn't take a columnist's ribbing about his news conferences.

The columnist was humorist Art Buchwald, whose paper — the New York Herald Tribune — was the first major paper to endorse Eisenhower for the presidency in 1952 and which has never wavered in its devotion. Hagerty once worked for the New York Times.

Buchwald, in a column published in the Herald Tribune and its Paris edition yesterday, counted an imaginary press conference.

Children Die As Blaze Hits Detroit Home

DETROIT (AP)—A flash fire killed three children today as they slept in an upstairs bedroom of their fashionable Northwest Side home.

Dead were Charles Farris, 14, his sister Jessica, 10, and brother Michael, 8. They were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Farris.

Firemen said the children suffocated after the fire broke out in the living room of the family home.

Farris, 46, was awakened by thick smoke. He managed to lead his wife Mary, 47, and his youngest child William, 5, to safety.

Neighbors, awakened by Farris' cries for help, summoned firemen.

The children were found in their beds at 12:04 a.m. Firemen and doctors at Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital worked for an hour and a half in an effort to revive them. Farris and his wife were taken to the hospital for treatment of shock.

Arson squad detectives were seeking the exact cause of the blaze. Firemen said a smoldering cigarette was believed to have caused the fire.

Some newspapers said President Eisenhower and the U.S. delegation was taken aback by this development.

The anti-Communist newspaper Die Presse of Vienna went further and said Eisenhower was disgruntled by developments at the summit conference in Paris.

Moscow Refutes Jew Persecution

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio said today the assertion abroad that Jews are being persecuted in the Soviet Union is "the worst lie yet invented against the Socialist system."

"Synagogues are working in the U.S.S.R.," the broadcast said. "Books by Jewish writers are being published, the writer Ilya Ehrenburg, the famous violinist David Oistrakh, the pianist Emil Gilels and thousands of other scientists and intellectuals who are looked up to and respected are Jews."

Non-White Population Hike Revealed In U. S.

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Census Bureau reported today that America's non-white population is increasing faster than whites and now makes up about 11 per cent of the total citizenry.

The bureau said the non-white population totaled 18,300,000 on July 1, an increase of about three million — or nearly 19 per cent — over the 1950 figure.

Researchers Landed In Neutron Finding

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Stanford University research scientists announced today they have uncovered surprising new information about the neutron, one of the small particles which make up the atom.

Working with the University's linear accelerator, they learned the tiny particle which has been considered only a "point" is considerably larger.

Their research shows that in one characteristic at least it is as big as one of the largest atom particles — the proton. They measured the so-called "magnetic cloud" about the neutron, using a beam of electrons aimed at deuterons, which are made up of one proton and one neutron.

The neutron is electrically neutral; a proton has a positive charge.

The announcement came at a conference on the Stanford campus attended by more than 200 of the world's leading physicists.

Dr. I. I. Rabi of Columbia University, a Nobel Prize winner in physics who is attending the conference, called the Stanford work "of immense importance."

Rabi suggested the research may lead to an understanding of what holds the nucleus together, which is one of the key mysteries of modern physics.

Egypt Claims Planes Can Carry Atom Bomb

CAIRO (AP)—The newspaper Al Akhbar said today that the Egyptian air force has Soviet-made Ilushin 28 bombers equipped to carry nuclear bombs. The story by the paper's military correspondent made no suggestion, however, that the Russians had provided Egypt any nuclear weapons.

Allies Defy Warning By Red Leader

U. S. Agrees To Sound Out Soviet On Disarm Talks

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

PARIS (AP)—The 15-nation North Atlantic Alliance, defying Russian threats and warnings, agreed today to base U.S.-made nuclear missiles in Europe. The United States thus won its major purpose at the conference.

The price paid by the United States was an agreement under pressure to sound out the Russians on a cold war truce, including a new effort at disarmament.

Having been assured yesterday of the softening of the U.S. attitude by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles, German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, Norwegian Premier Einar Gerhardsen, and Prime Minister Hans Christian Hansen of Denmark went along with the basic military decision today.

Report Set Later Today

The decision was subject to final approval by the heads of government, who were to receive a report from their foreign and defense ministers in a session this afternoon.

Reliable reports from the meeting of foreign and defense ministers this morning indicated that while the Alliance as a whole would endorse the principle of nuclear armament, it would be left up to the individual countries to accept the weapons.

The accord was reached at the morning meeting of foreign and defense ministers which opened the third day of the NATO summit talks. The meeting lasted almost three hours.

The ministers scheduled another session, apparently because some questions were still to be resolved. As a result, the daily meeting of President Eisenhower and the other heads of government was postponed.

The government chiefs are to issue a final communiqué tomorrow.

German Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss said the communiqué will declare the availability of missiles for NATO powers, although there will be no mention of which countries will have missile bases.

Countries to receive the new weapons will be recommended by Gen. Lauris Norstad, the NATO supreme commander.

Since the missiles are not expected to be available for a year or 18 months, the interim will be used for the great mass of necessary preliminary planning and for exploration of all possible avenues toward an agreement with Russia.

Such new attempts for an accord with the Soviets were demanded by various European leaders before the nuclear missiles actually were put on their bases.

Denmark, Norway Agree

An informant who reported the agreement said, Denmark and Norway, the chief objectors earlier to going ahead with the nuclear plans, now had accepted the principle that the NATO area should be armed with missiles.

So far only Britain, the Netherlands and Turkey have said they would be willing to take missiles on their territory.

Indo Leader Says Dutch Firms Out

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Premier Djanda said today Indonesia will "eliminate Dutch economic interests" from the island republic unless the Netherlands gives up West New Guinea.

Even if the neighboring Dutch colony is turned over to Indonesia, the Premier told a press conference, the Dutch will never regain the powerful economic position they held in Indonesia before the anti-Dutch campaign began about three weeks ago.

Jupiter' Test Appears Near

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla.—The red warning signal ball, signifying an impending missile launching, was hoisted at the U.S. missile test center again today.

There were reports that the Army will attempt to fire its modified Jupiter "C" rocket, the missile it will use in the attempt to place an earth satellite in orbit.

The firing was said to be scheduled for 1 p.m. (EST), but observers were unable to see any activity around the Jupiter launching tower.

Hungarian Reds Execute Student

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—The official Communist daily, Nepzabadsag, reported today a 23-year-old student had received "deserved punishment" for spying on behalf of the United States.

Although the paper did not say so, this was taken to mean that he had been executed. He was identified as Gabor Illsey, a student of a rich farmer and a student at Budapest's School of Agriculture.

Press Claims Ike Depressed

LONDON (AP)—British newspapers today welcomed the demand among European NATO members for new approaches to Russia before planting "missile bases on the Continent."

Some newspapers said President Eisenhower and the U.S. delegation was taken aback by this development.

The anti-Communist newspaper Die Presse of Vienna went further and said Eisenhower was disgruntled by developments at the summit conference in Paris.

Van Horn's Trial Windup Set Today

TOWSON, Md.—Final arguments, before three judges hearing the case without a jury, were all that remained today in the murder trial of lumber executive Robert Jett Van Horn.

Testimony in the 13-day trial ended yesterday when the gray-haired, impeccably dressed defendant returned to the witness stand in Baltimore County Circuit Court for defense rebuttal. A defense plea for a directed verdict was refused.

Pleaded Innocent

Van Horn, 53, is charged with beating his 54-year-old wife, Bernice, to death last June 1 at their country estate north of Baltimore. He has pleaded innocent. The defense contends he was temporarily insane.

Van Horn was reminded he had told psychiatrists he underwent a "kaleidoscope of horror, anger, fear and other emotions" after his socialite wife struck him on the head with her purse as they walked down the steps of their farm house.

"Actually," the defendant testified, "It would indicate anger of some kind. It was said in an effort to recreate the emotions I thought I had at that time. I think a more apt word might be a 'melange'."

When Van Horn stepped down, the defense immediately moved directed verdicts of innocent of murder, both in the first and second degree. The court denied the motions.

Friends See Stassen Set To Make Bid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harold Stassen appears ready to quit his job as White House disarmament aide to plunge into a bid for governor of Pennsylvania.

The 50-year-old Republican, who once was governor of Minnesota, reportedly hasn't made a final decision that now is the time to end his nearly five-year stint with the Eisenhower administration. But his friends believe he will make this decision soon.

A new sign that Stassen is moving in that direction came last night when he disclosed he has written GOP chairmen in all of Pennsylvania's 67 counties informing them he is seriously considering seeking the Republican gubernatorial nomination in the primary next May 20.

Previous indications that Stassen might run have received a chilly reception from Republican party leaders in Pennsylvania. In some cases, the reaction has been one of downright hostility.

Stassen, a legal resident of Valley Forge for the past 10 years, was president of the University of Pennsylvania when President Eisenhower picked him to head the foreign aid program at the outset of Eisenhower's first term. Later, he moved to his present post as Eisenhower's disarmament adviser.

Ever since Stassen failed in his campaign to dump Vice President Nixon from the Republican ticket last year, his political backers in the administration have been few.

Some of Stassen's close associates are known to be miffed because Eisenhower didn't include him in the big American delegation which went to Paris for the 15-nation Atlantic Pact summit conference.

If Stassen was hurt by this, he hasn't let out a peep of protest. The balding, 6-foot-3 disarmament specialist was at his State Department desk yesterday, carefully studying confidential cables on the progress of the Paris talks.

Thomas Crutchfield, Chattanooga lawyer who had been a special prosecutor in the case, testified he was surprised when Schoolfield dismissed the indictment March 14, 1952.

He said, however, that because of rumors then current he was not surprised—but was "disgusted"—when Schoolfield ordered the jury to acquit the defendants July 2, 1953. He said his reaction to the judge's move was to "hate his guts."

Crutchfield said the effect of the directed acquittal verdict was to exempt the Teamster defendants from further trial on the charges. Lavern Duffy, a committee investigator, testified he has seen a memorandum in which a federal tax investigator quoted Boling as stating money had been "passed" to get the indictment quashed.

Vets Approve Whittier As Head Of V. A.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sumner G. Whittier, a former lieutenant governor of Massachusetts, has been appointed veterans administrator. The 46-year-old Republican has been head of the Veterans Administration's Insurance Division for less than a year. His new job pays $21,000 a year. Whittier succeeds Harvey V. Higley, who resigned Nov. 13 to return to private life in Marinette, Wis.

President Eisenhower gave Whittier a recess appointment subject to Senate confirmation.

Two Veterans groups—the American Legion and American Veterans of World War II (Amvets)—immediately expressed satisfaction with the appointment.

Sex Offenders' Surgery Proves Effective Move

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—California's experimental program to cure sex offenders by surgery has been 100 per cent effective, Superior Court L. N. Turrentine told a legislative committee yesterday.

He said that 130 court-approved castration operations since 1938 have ended the subjects' various sex offenses problems.

Ten of the 130 men who have undergone the surgery testified directly or by letter. Nine recommended the surgical cure, but one said other means should be tried on first offenders. The 10th said he consented to the surgery only to avoid imprisonment and disapproval of it.

Labor Day Move Backed By Group

NEW YORK (AP)—A conference of northeastern states has received a proposal that Labor Day be moved to the second Monday in September.

Behind the move is an effort to aid the tourist and recreation industry, an important factor in the economy of the states.

The proposal was received with enthusiasm by legislators from the six New England states, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware.

Women Give Debtor Real 'Going Over'

WASHINGTON (AP)—William E. Burwell, 28, told police "I felt kind of funny" when a woman to whom he owed $50 told him to get into the front seat of her car, between her and another woman.

There were three other women in the back seat, he added. "I started out to make some polite talk," Burwell related. "I said, 'It looks like a dull Christmas.' She said, 'It's not going to be dull for you because I'm going to beat the stuffing out of you.'"

And that's just what they did, Burwell declared.

Burwell said he owed the $50 because he had been unable to repair a truck after being paid for parts.

Anne May Syrus, 38, identified by police as Burwell's creditor, and four other women were charged with assault yesterday. Police said that in making the arrests they also seized a loaded .38-caliber pistol, a butcher knife, a rolling pin and a blackjack.

Marine Receives Abuse Sentence

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP)—A U.S. Navy court-martial today found Marine Pfc. Frank K. Pasternak Jr., of Chicopee, Mass., guilty of mistreating prisoners and sentenced him to two months at hard labor.

The 22-year-old Marine was convicted on four counts. The court also ordered that he be reduced to private and fined $130. The sentence is subject to review by higher naval authorities.

He was one of 16 former Marine guards charged with mistreating prisoners at the Sasebo Navy base brig.

Bible Expert Quits TV Quiz Program As Domestic Problems Receive Airing

NEW YORK (AP)—Theophilus Adepoju Aderonmu has decided to take his $64,000 and his entangled domestic problems out of the television limelight.

The 30-year-old Bible expert from Nigeria told a nationwide television audience on CBS-TV's $64,000 Question program last night: "I have been so embarrassed, I can't concentrate in what I'm doing."

After the show, he told newsmen he plans to enter Northwestern University in January to continue working toward a medical degree. Ultimately, he said, he wants to establish a hospital near his home in Oyo, Nigeria.

One of the things that apparently embarrassed Aderonmu was that he claimed to favor a reconciliation with a divorced wife without mentioning that he had married again since the divorce. He also is having trouble with the Immigration Service.

Before withdrawing from the quiz program, Aderonmu, whose usually beaming face is scarred from tribal ceremonies, had answered correctly all the questions put to him about Bible subjects. He had gone as high as the $36,000 question and could have won as much as $256,000 but he said his embarrassment was so great that he would take the $64,000 and quit.

Aderonmu and his first wife, Fayé, were divorced in August 1956. After he began winning on the big money show, she appeared in Bronx Domestic Relations Court and sued him for non-support of their child.

At the time, Aderonmu talked as if he hoped for a reconciliation. A judge ordered him to pay $30 a week for support of the child.

Aderonmu told his television audience that he was willing to remarry his first wife if she would have him.

Meanwhile, in Chicago, records indicated he had taken a second wife on April 30, 1957. The records gave her name as Kathryn L. McGee, 33.

This came up while immigration officials investigated Aderonmu's status as a student. He came to this country on a student's visa but is not presently enrolled in any school.

He had attended Berea College in Kentucky and the University of Cincinnati but ran out of money. An immigration official said his television winnings might help him solve this problem by enabling him to enroll in college and stay in the United States.

"If he does the right thing, and acts in good faith, we'll go along with him," said Robert H. Robinson, district director of the Immigration Service in Chicago.

Two Dead, Survivor Critical In Shooting

BALTIMORE (AP) — A 26-year-old woman remained in critical condition today at Johns Hopkins Hospital, the only survivor of a triple shooting which left her husband and mother dead.

Mrs. Anne Woodward underwent a 2 1/2 hour operation yesterday after being shot three times by her estranged husband, 46-year-old Robert Woodward of Front Royal, Va.

Anne Arundel County police said Woodward shot both his young wife and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Ronald Mullenax, 47, in the Mullenax home at Sunrise Beach near Crownsville. The older woman was pronounced dead at the scene.

About 40 minutes after the 3:30 a. m. shooting, National Park Service police chased a speeding car on the Baltimore-Washington Expressway at speeds up to 100 miles an hour.

They forced the car to the side of the road near Cheverly, and as officers approached the car the driver shot himself in the head. The wounded motorist was taken to Prince Georges County Hospital where he was identified as Woodward. He died late in the afternoon.

The Woodwardes were married two years ago and had been separated about six months. Police said Mrs. Woodward had obtained a warrant Monday charging her husband with disorderly conduct and Woodward previously was placed under a peace bond.

Police Chief Wilbur C. Wade said Woodward, a service station operator at Front Royal, Va., entered the Mullenax home by cutting through a screened porch.

Wade said after Woodward cut the telephone wires, he beat and shot his wife in her bedroom. Mrs. Mullenax was shot as she investigated her daughter's screams.

Mrs. Woodward was shot in the head, wrist and arm.

Foreign School Study Proposed By DeWitt Hyde

WASHINGTON (AP) — A study of educational systems abroad, Rep. Hyde (R-Md.) said today, might yield clues for improving our own system.

"From such studies we may find the means of stimulating our youngsters to careers of science without the use of rigid forcing methods that are characteristic of dictatorial systems," he said.

Hyde said Congress will be faced next month with administration proposals and a host of other bills designed to improve our educational system.

"In studying these programs we ought to keep in mind a basic fact: Federal money, no amount of it, cannot overnight make scientists or create new attitudes toward the content of our school curriculums," he said.

"Then, too, we ought to keep in mind the fact that the classroom teacher is the key to progress and improvement in helping our young people to understand science and consider careers in this field."

Some of the proposals to aid education, he said, "carry the threat of federal control or interference at the local level, but I feel certain that the Congress in preparing the program for enactment can provide necessary safeguards."

World War 1 Vets Will Meet Tonight

A meeting of World War 1 veterans will be held today at 8 p. m. at Henry Hart Post 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The session is being conducted by Cumberland Barracks 1125, World War 1 Veterans.

Equestrian Statues On Their Way Out

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — This city, which has many equestrian statues, says statues of future heroes must be on foot — or replaced by something like a memorial carillon.

Planning officials say the age of equestrian statues ended when tanks, planes and other mechanical devices replaced the horse. And they don't think a Patton on a tank, a Doolittle in a plane or a MacArthur in a PT boat would be appropriate on a memorial boulevard.

Traffic officials are expected to be happy about this.

OUR COUNTRY

The union of hearts, the union of hands and the flag of our Union for ever.—Morris.

The Way To Peace

THE PROSPECT is that the NATO summit meeting in Paris is going to produce only broad general statements of purpose. That will be enough, if in the process there is a rallying of spirit among the NATO countries. Not since its beginnings in 1949 has NATO been so low in spirit or so soft in resolve. Though the threat of Communist aggression is stronger than ever, its armies have weakened as a counterforce. President Eisenhower's attendance at the Paris conference is aimed at restoring the flush of life to NATO's pallid cheeks. The warm European reaction to his announcement he would make the trip despite his recent illness suggests he has a good chance to achieve that objective.

THE FORTIFYING of NATO's sagging resolve is, of course, just a start back up the road. Many specific things need to be done. The conferees in Paris can sketch out these tasks, but that is all. The hard work of accomplishment lies ahead, at levels below the summit. Clearly there has to be a sharing of missiles and other advanced weapons in an age when these are beyond doubt the chief reliance of the defense in event of a Soviet attack. And from all sides there needs to be a fresh show of willingness to bear the proper burdens of the West's defense. France in particular has evidenced too great a tendency to be deflected into secondary channels, like Algeria. The West can never forget that the sternness of its NATO posture plus the great store of nuclear weapons in the United States arsenal constitutes the main deterrent to aggressive action by the Kremlin.

WERE OUR NATO defenses to crumble or were we to fall hopelessly behind in the race to lead the field in the critical weapons, Russia would make leaping strides toward world conquest, probably without firing a shot. That is, undoubtedly, the favored Soviet course of action—to win without fighting. Hence the latest letter to Western heads of state from Premier Bulganin, in an effort to embarrass the NATO negotiators and further weaken their resolve. But nothing has changed the basic axiom of the Cold War. The way to peace, secure and just peace, lies only through the tireless maintenance of a posture of strength by the free nations. NATO is a big part of the backbone in that posture.

NOW THE SOVIET Union is believed to be getting ready to compete with the United States for supremacy in commercial aviation. We would accept that as a very satisfactory substitute for military rivalry.

Christmas Gifts

A STAGGERING amount of money will, as usual in prosperous America, be spent this year on Christmas gifts. Statistics boggle at describing the number of packages that will be exchanged—enough, perhaps, to fill the Grand Canyon; enough to make a pile that would intercept the sputniks; enough to go around the world 13 times and still pace a four-lane highway from Omaha to Dallas. The point is made: Plenty of gifts will be exchanged during Yuletide. Now to an additional point: The best gifts won't come in packages. And we do not have in mind the sort—a yacht, a house, 39 acres of orange trees—that won't fit into packages. What we have in mind are the intangibles that evade packaging, however glossy the paper and gay the ribbons. A father pledges deeper love and understanding of his family—and keeps the pledge. A teen-age daughter makes clear a new awareness that parental discipline springs from love, not hostility—and acts accordingly. A man or woman determines to live through the year in the spirit of the One whose birth Christmas celebrates—and follows through on that new-found determination. These are the sort of thing we have in mind, the gifts that don't come in packages. There are more; anyone can name those that fit his own circumstances. Gifts of this kind do not cost a penny. They cannot be bought with money. Yet they are more precious than all the costly gifts beneath the tree on Christmas morning.

A DICTATORSHIP is a government under which a man who tries to get ahead may wind up losing his head.

Better Selling Vital To Future Business

NEW YORK — Much of the year-end forecasting of the shape of things to come in the business world in the coming year has become a gesture in public relations rather than scientific economic analysis.

The booby trap inheres in the assumption that the trend, or cycle, is foreordained.

The creative principle should be recognized that men's behavior and attitudes can alter the trend.

Specifically, a job-creating hope lies in the will of management to give an extra push in sales, advertising and promotional effort.

A study of the mild 1953-54 recession by the McGraw Hill Company concluded that the unwillingness of management in that period to follow the traditional policy of reducing promotional and advertising effort proportionate to the slump in sales kept the corrective period moderate and short in duration.

IN MAKING business budgets for 1958, this consideration is again timely.

Sales will not come easy as a result of accumulated shortages.

On the contrary, the capacity to make things is unprecedentedly large, and inventories in the hands of consumers are, by no stretch of the imagination, skimpy.

Accordingly, the burden is on the seller to make merchandise attractive.

Thus, the creative flair becomes increasingly important — the impact of the new approach with fresh appeal, original styling, and visible improvement in serviceability can be decisive.

THAT practical executives are sensing the score is revealed in plans for expanding expenditures for research and development.

These are investments in new salable ideas for the future.

In order to keep the sales volume on a high plateau consonant with existing high break-even points, it is necessary to press the factor of obsolescence. This, in human terms, reflects the desire to replace the outmoded with something newer and better.

This stands in sharp contrast with the Old World habit of using things until they are physically worn out.

The same attitude toward obsolescence prevails in the tools of industry. Machinery is not retained until the metal becomes tired. It is junked when engineers and tool makers design something that does the same work with less expenditure of costly manhours.

THE UNKNOWN factor of human attitudes in respect to the volume of employment next year, was stressed by a listener at a clinic on the business outlook held recently in New York under the auspices of the Associated Business Publications. After various specialized trade editors foretold the outlook in their industries, embracing a forecast of heavy volume under increasingly competitive conditions, one auditor emphasized that through better selling businessmen could improve the prospects.

The flexibility which potentially exists in 1958 was illustrated by reference to the situation in housing.

WHILE trade analysts predicted that housing starts in 1958 were likely to rise to between 1,100,000 and 1,200,000, as compared with 1,025,000 in 1957, some took the view that fundamentals offered further potential expansion.

Some argued that the trade sights for 1958 were too low in light of prospects of the formation next year of 1,200,000 new families. In addition, the industry expects that 300,000 existing houses will be demolished — largely because of highway construction.

Some of the barriers to expansion are man-made, having to do with tight money, which has passed its peak, and legislative rigidities, such as unrealistic fixed interest rates on FHA mortgages. Many think that a flexible, open market, interest rate would be more conducive to building activity.

Total construction is expected to be heavy next year, but plans on the drawing board represent a shifting in business investment from building new productive capacity toward building new and better facilities for merchandising and selling.

CDA Blueprints Bomb Blast Shelters

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Federal Civil Defense Administration has now come up with revised specifications for home shelter protection against atomic and hydrogen bomb blast and radioactive fallout.

All previous FCDA plans for shelter protection have of course been made obsolete by the new threat from Russian development of missiles with hydrogen warheads.

The newly designed blast shelter, to take care of five people for as long as two weeks, can be built for $3,300. For each additional person sheltered, add $300 to the cost. Protection against fallout can be provided for around $1,200.

Protection against blast is now recommended for all homes within 20-mile radius of a likely target for nuclear attack. Protection against fallout is recommended for all other areas, particularly those that are down wind from a likely target area.

The point now stressed by Benjamin C. Taylor, director of FCDA research and development, is that engineering formulas have now been worked out to cover every likely damage condition.

So any good contractor can now design adequate shelters to meet local conditions, using building materials readily available.

INITIAL radiation from the nuclear fireball in the first minute after explosion is expected to be fatal for 50 per cent of the people within one mile of the target area, even if protected by two feet of concrete.

Since nothing much can protect these victims, attention is centered on protecting people in the residential areas farther out. They have a chance of safety and escape.

The basic engineering specification here is to provide protection from the fireball blast pressure of 30 pounds per square inch. This is the pressure exerted by a 20-megaton explosion three miles away.

This protection can be provided by six feet, eight inches of packed earth, or four feet, six inches of concrete.

Ten square feet of floor space and 65 cubic feet of volume are recommended for every person. To be protected in a shelter. Sleeping accommodations should be provided for from a third to half of the occupants at any one time. Additional space must be provided for food and water storage, under the bunks and on high shelves.

FOOD supplies should be canned or dried so that they can be eaten without cooking. Water supply must be changed every three months to keep it fresh.

A mechanical ventilating system supplying three cubic feet of air per minute per person must be provided. If it is assumed that electric power will be out, an auxiliary gasoline engine or a hand-driven blower must be provided.

Failure to operate blowers for more than two hours at a time might be fatal. Assuming that sewage systems will be knocked out, septic tanks must be built in at additional cost. Or chemical toilets with disposable bags must be provided.

For both blast and fallout shelters, an air filter system is necessary. Dry-type cellulose-asbestos or fine glass fiber filters are recommended.

Design of entrances is considered important, so as to provide traps for radiation waves and wind-blown dust particles. For safety, direction of entry should change three times.

A BATTERY operated radio is considered essential for long-range reception. One new suggestion being made by atomic energy advisers is to build Geiger counter attachments on these radios.

Household disinfectants, flashlight, toilet articles, tools and first aid kit are also considered necessary.

Most of this equipment must be provided in both blast and fallout shelters. But the latter structures themselves need not be as heavy. Three feet of earth or two feet of concrete are considered sufficient protection against fallout.

Extra strength basement shelters or shelters built under garages may provide sufficient protection against fallout. But they are no longer considered adequate against megaton bombs.

In areas where underground water level is high, above-ground shelters may be built of sandbags or earth mounds.

For heavier protection, FCDA's

Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK — There is going to be no attempt here to explain why the young, well-born and well-heeled set in London is going in for a series of rather noisy and public shenanigans — such as conducting a foxhunt through the London subway system with a live fox and real hunting horns — but I can tell them this: they are lucky to be doing it in London and not in New York. The police officers of dear, staid Manhattan take an unamused view of such skylarking.

SOME WEEKS ago a young man of an eminent family in England celebrated some minor triumph by dunking himself in a large, public fountain in London and all he got was his picture taken. If he had tried it in the fountain in Rockefeller Center or the one in front of the Plaza Hotel, this would have happened:

Police would have come.

He would have been yanked out.

Police would have yelled at the gathering crowd: "Okay, okay! Break it up, break it up!"

He undoubtedly would have been booked, carted to Magistrate's Court, lectured and then committed to the psychiatric ward at Bellevue Hospital for observation.

IF 30 OR 40 GAY young things donned pink velvet hunting jackets, hunting hats, boots and brass horns and went crying "Yoicks" and "Vew Hallow" through the subways of New York, they either would be lassoed at the first local station or trapped at Columbus Circle and unceremoniously hauled off to Night Court where a magistrate with no sense of humor would throw whatever laws were handy at them.

But in England, where personal liberty is held dear, all that the subway authorities said was: "Not doing any injury to property, so we're letting youth have its head. No harm meant, you know."

YOUNG crowds have also taken jazz bands onto the subways and staged jam sessions in the trains and they have used the mechanical stairways as sort of accident-proof ski runs. Not one policeman raised his hand or voice.

Many passengers on the habitually dreary subway trains were entranced by the jazz music and others, filled to the brim with a hard day's work and prospects of a dull evening ahead, were diverted and amused by the children of the rich scampering up and down the escalators.

Maybe the British accept this kind of noisy but harmless pranking with better grace than we do. Certainly, their authorities do.

IT CAN BE argued that parties of this sort are deplorable and are evidence of decay and decadence in the British young of noble station. That's ridiculous, of course. They are evidence of high spirits refusing to be doused in a time of peril, trouble and grim realism.

England is passing through a horrible time. It is losing stature, citizens and money. Its money situation is desperate. People are leaving it by the hundreds daily. It is passing through a dreadful period and if the young prefer to show their concern in high-spirited parties, is that any worse than moping on street corners or in dark apartments and waiting? Once upon a time a young Congressman, in a moment of happy exuberance — he was on his wedding trip or something comparable — leaped into the Rockefeller Center fountain and waded around. He was hoisted out brusquely, whisked off to Bellevue and treated as though he had planned to blow up Manhattan Island. Poor fellow, he just felt happy.

And that you mustn't do any more!

Stars And Love Have Rival

NEW YORK — There is a new disturbing note in these days of scuttling satellites.

It involves young love, and what's to become of the ancient art of gazing at the sunset, otherwise known as 'stellar smooch-manship.'

Visualize the modern couple — usually a little shy, a trifle reverent, in love, with love, as they stroll into the dusk . . .

HE: "Lovely night. And you're lovely."

SHE: "Thanks."

HE: "Do you know that that little twinkling up there is the North Star?"

SHE: "Yeah?"

HE: "And if we stand here long enough, we'll see the milky way, and I'll give you a kiss for every pint."

SHE: "Wow. You got the time? On a watch, I mean?"

HE: "6:43."

SHE: "You got any inclination?"

HE: "Baby . . ."

SHE: "Not that kind, Buster. Sputnik inclination."

HE: "65 degrees. Flight path, northwest to southeast. But doesn't it matter I love you?"

SHE: "Sure, sweetheart. You ready for action?"

And when the young man finally opens his eyes, she is gone — having scurried to the nearest perchable rock or porch step to watch the latest whatnisk speed across the sky.

THE UNITED States can, and will, recover its prestige in the realm of outer space; but I doubt seriously that young love, at least for the next few years, will again dawdle delightfully in the sunset.

When a kid today says something is out of this world — he means it.

The scientifically-seductive girl in the above episode is only one of thousands of teen-agers who are being lured into satellite preoccupation by a young, good-looking Ph. D. named K. L. Franklin, the assistant astronomer at Hayden Planetarium, New York.

Franklin has devised a tricky device called the "satellite Pathfinder," which enables the simplest unscientific spectator to figure exactly when in the day, and where in the heavens, any of these flashing spectacles will pass over.

"The idea," he says, "is to plot your own orbit."

THE PATHFINDER is the size of a photograph record, and has moving plastic parts which show the map of the Northern Hemisphere, the time zones and the orbital paths of earth-made satellites.

"First you look in the papers for basic information. Taking the nuttin' for example — you would have found it traveling at an inclination of 65 degrees, its direction of flight northwest to southeast, and orbiting at such a rate as to circle the earth in 96 minutes."

Now — by reading the time when the satellite passed over any spot in the Northern Hemisphere sphere, you can set this device and learn exactly when it will pass over your own back yard."

FRANKLIN'S invention, designed for young adults and sold through bookstores and planetariums for $1.95, is catching on big. As one teen-age specialist put it, "selling like hot rods."

Franklin, himself, has advice for Lotharios who feel that science is lousing up love. They always will be some girl who will become very weak and helpless at the thought that this fire in the sky might fall down on little of her.

Don't tell such a female, Franklin advises, that a human is hit by a meteor only once in every 100 years.

Tell her — in fact, show her — you're her only protection.

Dreamer

THERE ARE dreamers. There are practical men who also are dreamers. These latter are often the great ones of the earth. Niels Henrik Bohr, the Danish physicist who first attracted worldwide attention when he won the Nobel prize in 1922 for atomic research, is such a man.

Since his pioneering work on the atom in the days just after World War I, Dr. Bohr has played a prominent role in the development of nuclear physics. He was first assistant to the director of the atomic project at Los Alamos from 1943 to 1945. Recently, he was awarded the "atom for peace" prize sponsored by the Ford family. Dr. Bohr, at 72, is a respected elder statesman in the world of science.

This background is sketched in support of the belief that whatever the renowned Danish physicist has to say on human affairs deserves a respectful hearing. That is especially true of something he said recently at an interview in this country.

Men of all nations must utilize the achievements of science by uniting in "friendly competition" for the benefit of the race, Dr. Bohr told newsmen. And the alternative to such enlightened behavior, he remarked, is "common human suicide."

"This was not something tossed off lightly for political effect. This was the considered judgment of one of the greatest living scientists: Either we strive together for the common good, or we will face common disaster."

Only a dreamer talks of "friendly competition" in a world darkened by hatred, distrust, fear and hostility. But perhaps only a dreamer — a practical dreamer such as Dr. Bohr — can show us the central truth about man's future on this planet.

Barbs

Some people can count on their fingers the true friends they can count on.

Reporter's Notebook

PASCAGOULA, Miss. — Thanks to 80 good men and a frightened stranger, the SS Brasil, the largest passenger liner ever built in the Deep South, was successfully launched here this week.

I was the frightened stranger — the trigger man — picked to send the big, handsome 22,500-ton vessel down the ways.

When a representative of the owners, the Moore McCormack Lines, asked if I'd like to launch the new ship, largest built in this country since the SS United States I realized it was a high honor for a lowly typewriter pecker.

"But," I demurred, "I've never put anything into the water bigger than a canoe."

"Oh, there's nothing to it," a New York spokesman of the line assured me. "All you have to do is push a button."

I felt even more unsure when it was explained that the 80 trained workmen would knock out all but two pins holding the 25 million dollar ship in place.

PROMPTLY at 3 p. m. on the dot I had to move the lever that would release the two pins, and start the ship down the greased skids.

At 10 seconds to 3 o'clock, I heard a voice chanting, then "release trigger!"

I pushed the lever, nothing happened. I fell against it in a panic and felt it arc forward.

For a fraction of a second that seemed forever, there was absolute silence down below while up on the official platform Mrs. Emmet J. McCormack, wife of the lines' board chairman, banged a bottle of champagne against the ship and christened her.

But I could hear my heart pounding. Something must have gone wrong. I could visualize the owners saying, "You bum, we spent 18 months on this ship and you ruined her in one second. Well, you'll have to pay for her yourself."

THEN CAME THE sound of cracking wood almost like an explosion, and the huge vessel began to slide. Slowly at first, then faster and faster, creating a mighty wind, and then a cheer went up as her stern hit the river, and she rode the water as graceful as a gull.

It is a tremendous moment when a thing so vast and man-made first embraces its duty. It gives you a catch in the throat. In less than a minute this big dead conglomeration of metal had become a thing alive, full of a wave-borne beauty.

I wished her fair weather and fine voyages and a long happy life at sea and in port. Then I went over and kicked that obstreperous lever so hard I hurt my foot. It had aged me 10 years in 10 seconds.

Don't ever let anyone tell you there's nothing to launching a ship but pushing a button. It's more like having a baby, and I sure hope I never come any closer to knowing motherhood.

Washington Scene

WASHINGTON — Our press conferences with President Eisenhower and members of his cabinet are conducted mostly on a "big, broad basis. Questions and answers usually have national, international, or interplanetary significance, or all three. There is, however, one notable exception. Our sessions with Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton are as local-yokel as an old-fashioned barnraising.

We ask the President what he thinks about NATO; Secretary of State John Foster Dulles what he thinks about Russia; Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy what he thinks about our satellite program; and the Secretary of the Interior what he thinks about a new culvert at Hound's Gap.

I HAD AN opportunity to make comparisons the other day because I went from a grimly-serious press conference of Benson's to one of Seaton's soirees. The smiling and debonair Interior chieftain opened by announcing that he was off next day to preside at the regular quarterly meeting of the Virgin Island Corporation.

He added roughly: "I have to go to the Virgin Islands. I am forced to hold these meetings by law."

"In December?" asked a jealous reporter who had just heard that Washington was due for near-zero weather.

"That I am heading for the tropics in the face of this threatened cold wave is sheer coincidence," grinned Seaton.

A newspaperwoman asked if there were any new developments about draining a pond near El Paso.

"Nothing, Esther," smiled the Secretary of the Interior so chummily that the lady smiled back, although her first name is "Sarah."

There was no pressing, no boring in, as at other Washington press conferences. Not one reporter crowded Seaton, and some of the nastiest crowdiers in the business were present. One irritationist just nodded cheerfully when he asked whether oil had been discovered on a moose reserve in Alaska and Seaton replied:

"The matter hasn't yet come to my attention. Sorry."

SECRETARY Seaton then caused a brief but happy digression by disclaiming any connection with a 100-gallon still that had been seized in a raid on Seaton Place, here got onto the import tax in zinc and this pleasant patter resulted:

Q. Who pays the import tax?

A. That is a good question. The same people who pay most everything else in the long run, until they can pass it on to somebody else.

Q. The ultimate consumer?

A. The ultimate consumer in the long range question.

The questioner would have crowded any other members of the Administration hierarchy, but he accepted Seaton's reply as a complete and categorical answer. Then we talked about a bird sanctuary somewhere, shook hands with the Secretary of the Interior, and exited laughingly.

From now on, when press conferences of other administrationists render me too morbid, I'm going to seek succor by meeting with Seaton.

Montgomery Co. Board Refuses Airport Permit

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — The Montgomery County Council refused yesterday to approve plans for a private airport in the upper part of the county.

The refusal to grant the zoning exception was recommended by the county Planning Board, which said no airport construction should be permitted until it completes a master plan for the future of the entire area.

Two pilots, Walter M. Sterling and Charles E. Windson, had sought to establish a small airport between Seneca and Poolesville.

The Council also ordered a critical examination of ambulance and rescue squad facilities by the Montgomery County Fire Board. The issue of rescue squad locations was brought up when the Council killed the last legal possibility by which the Wheaton Rescue Squad could build headquarters on a residentially zoned property. The proposed site is within a block of the Kensington Volunteer Fire Company's Station 2, where an ambulance is maintained.

Firemen Check Call At B&O Yard Project

The District 16 Volunteer Fire Company was called to the site of the B&O's yard improvement project along Oldtown Road last night when a conveyor used to unload gondolas was damaged by fire.

Firemen said the fire may have started when heat from the motor ignited fumes from a covered oil heater used to keep the equipment from freezing.

Eight members of the company, along with several B&O workers, were at the scene for over an hour. Firemen said the blaze did not damage nearby electrical equipment.

Added Service Is Questioned By Airline

WASHINGTON (AP) — An official for Eastern Air Lines yesterday questioned the feasibility of providing additional air service between Boston and Washington via a number of intermediate cities. Testifying at a Civil Aeronautics Board hearing, M. M. Frost, vice president and executive assistant to the chairman of the board, said proposed new service by Allegheny Airlines and Mohawk Airlines would merely duplicate service now provided by Eastern.

Frost noted that Allegheny has proposed a Boston - Washington route via Providence, New London, Hartford, New Haven, Bridgeport, Newark or New York, Trenton, Philadelphia, Wilmington, Baltimore and Washington.

Court Rules Parents Get Child Custody

12-Year-Old Girl Lived Most Of Life With Grandparents

The custody of a 12-year-old girl has been decided by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris after a hearing yesterday in Circuit Court. The court ruled that the girl should leave her grandparents and return to the home of her parents. She has spent most of her life with the grandparents.

Judge Harris announced his decision from the bench and then said that he would file a written opinion within a few days.

James N. DuVall and Mary Louise DuVall, his wife, of Springfield, W. Va., brought the equity suit against his parents, Walter E. DuVall and Mabel T. DuVall, his wife, of RFD 4, seeking custody of their 12-year-old daughter, Sandra Kay.

For some time the grandparents and parents of the girl lived on the same property at North Branch. The elder DuValls owned both homes and lived in the larger of the two houses, located only about 35 feet apart.

When the parents moved to Springfield August 12 of this year, the 12-year-old girl refused to leave her grandparents and remained in Maryland.

Judge Harris decided that the parents were entitled to legal custody of their daughter but the child left the court room with her grandparents. Earl E. Manges was attorney for the younger DuValls and Harold E. Naughton represented the grandparents.

How Much Can You Spend On Monthly Payment Plans?

By OTTO C. LORENZ, Associate Editor, THE AMERICAN BANKER

Installment buying has made it possible for every family to have the appliances it needs—when it needs them.

There is little reason to wait until all the cash is available before buying the appliances you need, because with a new baby in the house, for example, certain appliances are necessary—and right away. A washer and a dryer, it is known, are invaluable for a new mother who is taking on the additional work of a baby and needs all the extra time and energy she can get.

She can have those appliances now by purchasing on the installment plan. Then she can have the use of the work-saving servants when she needs their help the most.

If you're wondering how installment credit buying affects the saving habit, a special study of consumer installment credit made at President Eisenhower's request for the Federal Reserve Board reports that "Consumers desire to save and the importance they attached to the accumulation of savings were not impaired by their extensive use of installment buying."

Even if you have cash on hand, there may still be good reason to buy on installment. For, if you retain your full savings and go into debt to buy an appliance, the pressure of paying the installments will prevent the frittering away of income on unnecessary items.

There is no formula for determining how much of a family's income can be spent on monthly payment plans. However, two years ago a family with two children, and $5,000 annual income, spent about $48 a month on installment payment plans. This figure is out to be about 12.7 per cent of the take home pay.

LIGHTS CHANUKAH CANDLE FOR 100th TIME—Hershel Bregman, 104, retired Everett, Mass., shoemaker, lights the first candle of eight festive Chanukah candles, performing the solemn religious rite he started when he was a four year-old boy in his home in Minsk, Russia. The religious rite at sundown began the observance of Chanukah, the happiest of Jewish festivals, honoring the feast of the Maccabees in freeing Judea nearly two centuries before the birth of Christ. Bregman resides in Everett with his son, Aaron, one of his 13 children.

Church Sets Yule Program This Sunday

The Sunday School department of Emmanuel Methodist Church will present a Christmas program on Sunday at 7:30 p. m.

The primaries under the direction of Miss Wanda Gerard, and the juniors under the direction of Mrs. Grace Bishop will present a part of the program including recitations and exercises. The senior Methodist Youth Fellowship of the Sunday school will present a playlet titled "The Angelic Song."

The intermediates will form a group of carolers and will assist in the playlet. The offering to be received during the program will go to the Board of Child Care of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Church.

Following the evening program, a group of carolers sponsored by the Wesleyan Fellowship will leave the church at 9:15 and sing the traditional carols at the home of the shut-ins of the church and community. After the caroling, the group will return to the parsonage for light refreshments and a dismissal meditation.

During the morning worship service Sunday, new members will be received into membership of the church from the membership training class. A Christmas message titled "The Wonder Of It All," will be given by the pastor.

Keeping Up With Times CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. J. G. McDowell, 80, has bowed to the inevitable. She recently replaced the Model T Ford she had driven 28 years with a sports car.

But the amount that can be spent each month is an individual family matter, and should be figured out with care. For instance some families in that same income bracket were committed to as much as $75 a month on monthly payments for cars, refrigerators, washing machines, household appliances and home improvements.

Checking revealed that they met their payments promptly and didn't get into trouble—chiefly because some one made the food and clothing dollars do a really fine job.

They had steaks and roasts occasionally, but mostly other good and less expensive meats that "home ec" classes had taught would go a long way and still keep everybody happy.

Washing machines and refrigerators had been bought and paid for on the installment plan long ago—and what a saving in laundry bills and food conservation that was, now that the machines were fully paid for!

Economists say that payments on installment debt amounted to 12.7% of disposable income in 1955.

The following examples will show you how easy it is to repay a low-cost First National Bank Personal Installment Loan. If you borrow $100.00 and repay it over 12 months, your monthly payments will be $8.90 . . . over 18 months, payments will be $6.11, and over 24 months payments will be only $4.72. If you borrow $200.00 payments will be—for 12 months, $17.80; for 18 months, $12.21; for 24 months, $9.42. If you borrow $300.00 payments will be—for 12 months, $26.69; for 18 months, $18.31; for 24 months, $14.13. Stop in monthly payment plans. This and ask us for complete details.

Brownie Troop Holds Investiture Service

Brownie Troop 42, sponsored by St. Peter and Paul, held an investiture service and first anniversary celebration last week at the church.

The welcome was given by Carla Harrison, president of the troop, and Mary Margaret Minke, Juliette Low representative, had charge of the flag ceremony. The color guard included Susan Wood, Anne Scully, Kathy Zimowski and Kathy Young. New flags of the troop were presented.

A group of girls presented a pantomime, "Over the Teacups," with Shawn Geatz announcing. Participants were Linda Struntz, Barbara Malachowski, Karen Soethe, Janie Reinhart, Jody Minke, Denise Kaylor, and Sheila Keller.

"The Brownie Story," a play, was presented by the fourth grade Brownies under the direction of Mrs. William Harrison. Characters were Linda Goodman, Patricia Graham, Mary Beth Wildes, Marlene George and Carla Harrison.

Anne Scully then invited the girls to take part in a treasure hunt, during which they discovered the pins and stars to be used in presentation ceremonies.

One-year membership stars were presented to each member, and five new girls were invested. The new members include Debra Kelley, Charlene Rohman, Linda McMahon, Pamela Lindsay and Janet Bridges.

Miss Olive Hurlburt, executive director of the Cumberland Council Girl Scouts, assisted in the ceremonies.

Guests included Mrs. Frank Leger, chairman of District 1; Mrs. Joseph Levins, neighborhood chairman; Ellen Reinhart and Jane Zimowski, Girl Scout assistants, and the mothers of the Brownies.

Mrs. James Reinhart is chairman of the troop committee. Mrs. Charles George is secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Paul Scully, social chairman; Mrs. Francis Rohman, cookie chairman; Mrs. Thomas McMahon is transportation chairman. Besides Mrs. Zimowski, other troop leaders include Mrs. James Lindsay, Mrs. Peter McFarland and Mrs. Louis Soethe.

Pile Brothers Given Contract For Valley Project

The Pile Brothers Inc. McMillen Highway, has been awarded a contract by the Board of Education to furnish and install an underground drainage line at Valley High School for $3,173.20.

The Pile Brothers firm was the low bidder among five submitting bids last Wednesday.

Included in this project are digging a trench, laying a pipeline, caulking joints, connecting inlets, installing grates, backfilling and grading.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster reported that Charles E. Stotler, representing Friends Aware, attended yesterday's board meeting. He wanted to discuss the overcrowding of station wagons transporting the severely handicapped children to their special classes.

The superintendent said the trouble is that nine or ten children are crowded into the station wagon.

Foster J. Liederbach, manager of the Strand Theatre, appeared at the meeting to question why he had been refused permission to distribute reduced rate admission tickets to "Around The World in 80 Days" when it was presented during much of the month of November. It was explained that similar requests by other theatres would have to be disposed of at the meeting including the granting of maternity leaves to several teachers.

Election of officers will be held at a meeting of the Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Company today at 7:30 p. m.

John Costa, president, reports that because of the Christmas and New Year's holidays there will be no meeting after tonight until January 8.

Firemen To Check Christmas Lights

The city firemen have offered to check the wiring on Christmas tree lights for local residents, if they bring their sets to the nearest fire station.

Firemen at all four stations, Fire Chief Virgil Parker said, will be glad to inspect Christmas tree lights or other electrical equipment used for Christmas decorations.

The free inspection service has been offered by the Cumberland Fire Department for a number of years.

Frederick-Washington Pike Opened

ROCKVILLE, Md. (U)—Gov. McKeldin opened another section today of what has been described as Maryland's most beautiful road, the National Pike from Frederick to Washington.

Reconstruction of the road as a dual lane, limited access expressway started in 1950. Travel on it was opened today to an interchange at Montrose road south of Rockville. Through traffic will be able to by-pass Rockville.

Another section continuing toward the capital to Pooks Hill is under construction. It will join with the new Washington circumferential highway and old U. S. 240 (Wisconsin Ave.).

The National Pike recently was pointed out by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads as one of five models for the country's federal interstate highway system, Gov. McKeldin said. Three of the others were toll roads and the fourth the Washington-Baltimore Parkway.

While pointing with pride to the new superhighway, Gov. McKeldin said "many miles of roads" built in Montgomery County are in the secondary system, "the farm to market and home to office roads."

He also noted that "this section of clean, white pavement we open today is unspotted, unsoiled, and unsullied — completely free of litter."

"This time next week, when thousands of cars and trucks have driven over it, these roadsides will begin to take on an appearance all too familiar in Maryland."

"There will be, I sadly predict, the usual weekly quota of trash on this fine new highway."

Two Local Youths Put On Probation

Two local youths involved in a disturbance at a Cresaptown confectionery December 9 received a hearing Monday in Juvenile Court.

Magistrate Fred H. Anderson said one of the boys was already under probation, which was extended until the end of the school term and that the other, who was making his first trip to Juvenile Court, was placed on probation for the same time.

He said both youths, one is 16 and the other 17, were ordered to stay out of the confectionery, where they started a fight with several other boys.

Harrisburg Man's Term Commuted

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (U)—Gov. Milward L. Simpson yesterday commuted the death sentence of Ernest L. Lindsay, 25, of Harrisburg, Pa., to life in prison.

The governor specified that Lindsay not be eligible for parole.

Lindsay was to have been executed in the gas chamber of the Wyoming Penitentiary Jan. 4.

Lindsay was convicted of first degree murder in the June 20, 1955, gunshot death of Herbert E. Diestler, retired Lawndale, Calif., real estate man, on a lonely highway near Shawnee, Wyo.

Diestler's brother, Adolph Diestler of Kenosha, Wis., wrote Simpson urging that Lindsay's life be spared.

Business Briefs . . .

NEW YORK — (INS) — Record sales increased about five million dollars to $122,615,000.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Reliance Electric and Engineering Co. reported today record sales and earnings in the fiscal year ended Oct. 31. Net sales, including those of Master Electric which was merged July 31, amounted to $95,455,000 and earnings totaled $4,995,028, or $4.71 per share. Reliance in 1956 had sales of $64,000,000 and net of $2,921,000 or $3.48 a share.

WYANDOTTE, Mich. — (INS) — Wyandotte Chemical Corp. announced today acquisition of ten acres of property in Metropolitan Toronto as a plant site for future manufacture of its J. B. Ford Division product line.

NEW YORK — (INS) — Combined net earnings of ACF industries and subsidiaries in the six months ended Oct. 31 amounted to $3,361,000, or $3.78 per common share compared with $4,137,000, or $2.92 a share, a year earlier. Sales totaled $167,344,000 as against $129,589,000.

NEW YORK — (INS) — An optimistic long-range outlook for the railroad industry was expressed today by Reading Railroad president Joseph A. Fisher. He said that "in the foreseeable future, railroads offer the most efficient and economical means of moving the nation's freight. Some day that is going to be recognized."

Discussing his own line's performance this year, Fisher estimated net income of about $10,635,000 compared with $12,112,000 in 1956.

CHICAGO — (INS) — Sales of the automatic merchandising industry this year passed two billion dollars for the first time. William S. Fishman, president of the National Automatic Merchandising Association, said NAMA statisticians estimate volume at $2.25 billion compared with $1.9 billion in 1956. He said the greatest growth came in vending of hot foods which developed into a $6.6 million field from volume of $2 million a year ago.

Wall Street Hears . . .

NEW YORK — (INS) — Wall Street Hears: Ability of the industrial and rail average to hold this week above the October lows could still signal a year-end rally, according to battered market bulls.

Full 1957 earnings for United Gas Corporation should rise to at least $2.50 from $2.28 in 1956, according to a Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Beane study. The brokerage firm also estimates 1957 net of $8.75 for DuPont vs. $8.20 last year; $2.90 for General Electric vs. $2.46 in 1956; and $3.67 to $4 for International Paper vs. $7.05 in 1956.

Some issues scheduled for the New Year include $14 million Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric bonds, competitive; 115,000 Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing common, $30 million Connecticut Light and Power bonds; $20 million Washington Water Power first mortgage bonds and $10 million sinking fund debentures.

Hoover Company expects vacuum cleaner and other appliance sales to reach a new high this year. But, because of rising wage and material costs, earnings will be slightly below the $4.93 a share of 1956.

Paramount Pictures net for the first 11 months, is ahead of the $2.17 a share earned from operations in all 1956. Sale of short subjects to television helped Paramount pick up $2.26 a share in special items last year.

Market comment — Heinz H. Biel of Emanuel, Deeljen and Company:

"While we may not yet have seen the bottom of this bear market, this does not seem to be the proper time to take an unduly pessimistic view of the future of the stock market."

Takes Training Course

A training course at the Philadelphia office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company is being attended this week by Miss Shirley Sandsbury, office supervisor of the Cumberland office of the firm.

Agricultural Briefs

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The world's food supply has barely kept pace with the climb in population this year, according to Agriculture Department authorities.

The world food situation was hampered by a heavy decline in production in the Soviet Union. Free world production for the 1957-58 year inched up slightly.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Low-grade damaged corn that would ordinarily not be eligible for price support loans will be accepted by the government this year under a special regulation.

The Commodity Credit Corporation will grant loans at a discount to corn that has been damaged or overheated in drying to meet storage requirements. Discounts for No. 4 or No. 5 grade corn range from one to 13 cents a bushel.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The Agriculture Department reports that there were no cases of "VE"—a once-serious swine disease—found during 1957.

VE—vesicular exanthema—is spread chiefly by feeding raw garbage to hogs. At one time, it infected 150,000 swine in the U. S.

To keep pine wood from warping, seal the pores on both sides with a thinned coat of shellac.

Physical Ed Instructors Begin Course

Physical education teachers in the Allegany County public schools met yesterday with Robert E. Pence, county supervisor, in the third of a series of meetings designed to impress and unify the program of physical education.

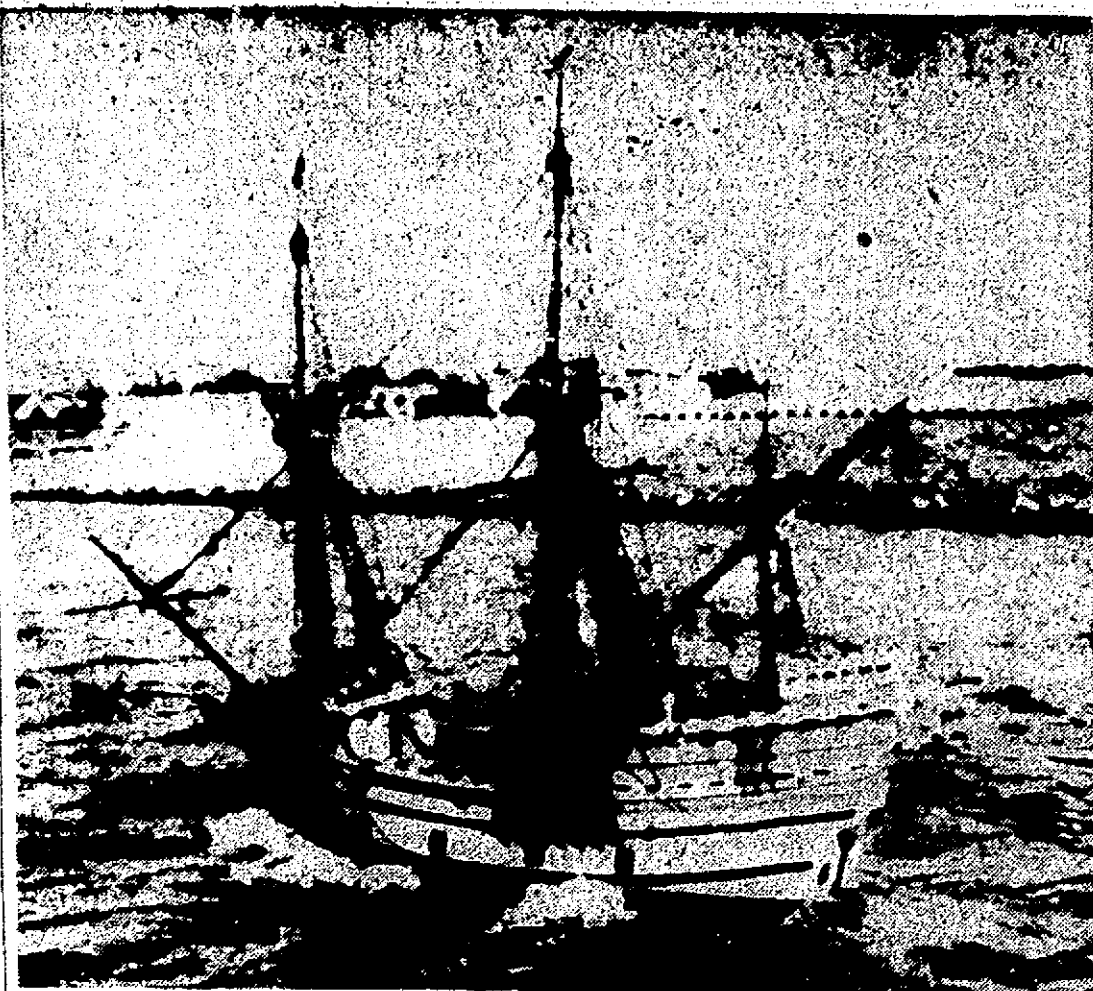

In his first year as a supervisor last year, Pence studied the physical education program offered in the county and came up with specific recommendations to make the program better and more uniform.

With the start of the new school year in September, a meeting was arranged by the supervisor with the 17 men and 15 women who teach physical education in the high schools. Then in mid-November a second session was held with the women physical education teachers.

Now the teachers have volunteered to serve on a number of committees which will study different phases of the program. When the committee work is completed the teachers will reconvene to ratify a set of recommendations.

Eight major areas will be studied by the committees, the supervisor said. They include introduction, with consideration of the purposes and scope of the physical education program; the instructional class program, the intramural program, the interscholastic program, other programs, which include the adapted program, health, first aid, physical fitness, co-educational, recreational program, outdoor program and aquatics; evaluation, needed references and finally recommendations.

The U. S. Federal government owns 32.5 per cent of the total land area in the District of Columbia.

PILGRIM'S PROGRESS—Mayflower II, replica of the ship used by Pilgrims to sail to America, enters the Miami harbor to tie up for the winter. She was towed 1,500 miles from Plymouth and will go on exhibition. The ship encountered high winds and rough seas during part of the southward voyage, but the craft weathered the storms undamaged.

Quackery Big, Dangerous Business In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (INS)—Two state senate committees have revealed that quackery is big and dangerous business in Los Angeles.

The committees turned their spotlights on charlatans in the fields of medicine, education and religion with an eye to tightening the laws against them.

One witness, Milton P. Duffy, chief of drug inspections in California, testified that countless deaths are caused each year by get-well-quick cancer quacks.

He said convictions obtained thus far included cases where cancer "treatment" called for drinking turnip juice and using ozone machines, salves, boots and electric blankets.

Dr. John W. Cline, chairman of the cancer commission of the California Medical Association, described a "root brew" cure advocated by an apprehended modern witch doctor.

"This root," said Cline, "had to be picked with the left hand at the rise of the moon on Friday the 13th—and the patient who told me about it completely believed in it."

California is a fertile field for cancer quacks, Cline testified, because the disease strikes mainly people over 40, and there are many elderly citizens in the state.

Water Leak Causes Damage To Volumes

ARDMORE, Okla. (AP)—For those who think that mystery and western novels are all wet, they're right—at least at the Ardmore library.

Water leaked through a hole in the roof and caused $50,000 damage to books in the western and mystery department.

Soft Shoes Aid For Baby Feet

CHICAGO (INS)—If you want to do a favor for baby buy him soft shoes which give him "bare-foot freedom" while learning to walk.

According to the American Medical Association, if the baby wears shoes which permit his feet to develop naturally, he probably will have comfortable feet when he grows up.

The AMA warned that if even the heel portion of the baby's shoe is confining, the foot may become weak and stiff.

AMA recommendations for baby's shoes were:

—They should be copied after the baby's foot rather than a tiny model of an adult shoe.

—They should be wide across the toes to permit their spreading and flexing as the child walks.

—They should be made of leather which "breathes through its open pores."

Child Welfare Group Conducts Meeting Here

A meeting of the Community Coordinating Council for Child Welfare was held last night at the Port Cumberland Hotel with 12 agencies attending. Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel for Allegany County public schools, presided at the session.

More than 3,000,000 Americans live in house trailers in 12,000 mobile home parks throughout the United States.

Red Cross First Aid Course Taken By Two Local Groups

Classes in first aid have been completed by two groups, according to Mrs. George W. Legge, executive secretary of the Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross.

One group was conducted by John T. Morris, 1404 Frederick Street, at the home of Henry Hart Post 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars. The other was in-

Judge Rules Premium Must Be Paid

Local Agent Contested Payment To New York Insurance Official

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris has ruled that a local insurance company must pay back premiums on policies issued under a firm which has since become defunct.

Samuel T. Weatherholt, trading as Samuel T. Weatherholt and Sons, had contested the payment of $2,181.60 to Leffert Holt, superintendent of insurance of the State of New York, acting as liquidator of the Preferred Accident Insurance Company of New York.

In his opinion Judge Harris said the Preferred company entered into an agreement with the Weatherholt company in 1943 for the latter to write insurance in Maryland for the New York concern.

The local insurance agent was to receive all premiums on the insurance and to retain from the premiums collected the amount of commissions set forth in the agreement.

The New York company went into receivership on April 30, 1951, and the suit brought against Weatherholt by the liquidator stated the local insurance man had in his hands unremitted premiums in the amount of $2,834.77, which amount deducted from his commissions in the amount of $703.17, left a net amount due of $2,131.60.

The bill of complaint asked judgement for the monies due. Weatherholt filed a demurrer which was overruled on June 14, 1957.

On June 26, Weatherholt admitted he wrote policies listed in the complainant's bill and had not transmitted to the New York company the premiums. He further said he was not responsible to the complainant or the New York company for premiums which he did not collect and could not be sued at law until the figure was determined.

The complainant demurred and the court sustained the demurrer on September 12.

On December 5 a hearing was held to determine if the complainant was barred from collecting the sum owed because of the lapse of time between the receivership and the filing of a claim.

Testimony indicated there were more than 100,000 claims filed with the liquidator and that there were more than 200,000 policies of the New York company in force in the 48 states at the time of receivership.

The claim against Mr. Weatherholt was first forwarded to the Insurance Commissioner of Maryland who employed the late Willis Jones to collect. Jones later died and the New York liquidator then came into the state and filed a bill to collect the premiums on March 4, 1957.

Judge Harris further stated in his opinion that there was no unreasonable delay in pursuing the claim and that Weatherholt has in no manner been prejudiced. The local agent has had (Continued on Page 22)

$20,000 Suit Filed Here

Suit has been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court for $20,000 damages in the death of a youth in a highway accident near Green Spring last April.

Mrs. Pauline G. Nixon, Oldtown, administratrix of the estate of Ronald Charles Nixon, brought the suit against Mrs. Dorothy Wagoner Patch, 407 Cedar Street, administratrix of the estate of Bruce Lee Wagoner.

Young Wagoner, who was 17, was killed instantly when the car he was driving struck a tree on the Green Spring Road, about eight-tenths of a mile north of Green Spring in Hampshire County. Nixon, who was 18, died about 30 minutes after his admission to Memorial Hospital the night of April 27.

Another Wagoner boy, Loy James, who was 13, died the next day.

The declaration, which was filed by Attorney Estel C. Kelley, attributes the accident to careless driving on the part of Bruce Lee Wagoner.

G.P. Mahoney Gets In Demo Senate Race

Action Assures Party Of Another Primary Contest

ANNAPOLIS (U.P.)—George P. Mahoney filed this morning for his third try at becoming United States Senator from Maryland. The controversial Democratic figure thus assured his party of another primary fight for the Senate nomination. Mrs. Nellie Marie Marshall of Baltimore already has filed and James Bruce of Reisterstown, Clarence Long of Baltimore and O. C. Miller of Hyattsville have announced their intentions.

There is strong belief that John Grason Turnbull, State Senate majority leader from Baltimore County, also will enter the race. Mahoney came into the secretary of state's office on crutches he has been using for the last nine months as a result of an ankle injury received in the 1956 Senate campaign. He was injured in jumping from a platform. He said doctors say he'll be ready for campaigning next year.

Held By Beall

The Senate seat up for contest next year is held by Republican J. Glenn Beall who fully intends to seek reelection. Beall won it in 1952 by beating Mahoney. Mahoney also ran last year and lost to Republican John Marshall Butler. Mahoney lost the Democratic nomination to Millard Tydings only to have it handed him when the former senator became sick and couldn't run.

Mahoney also sought the Democratic nomination for governor in 1954 and was beaten by H. C. Byrd, again a candidate for the same post.

Mahoney, in a statement accompanying his Senate candidacy, recalled he had let it be known last May 18 he was contemplating a candidacy for state-wide office.

Establishes Headquarters

Since then, he offered himself as a candidate for comptroller on a ticket headed by Millard Tydings for governor and with C. Ferdinand Sybert for Attorney General. There was no response.

Mahoney termed his offer an effort to formulate a Democratic harmony ticket and since "there now appears little hope for such an eventuality" he is striking out on his own for Senate.

He announced he already has established campaign headquarters at his Baltimore office building.

"During the weeks ahead, I will visit every part of Maryland to fully acquaint the voters with my views on the problems which confront the nation's businessmen, working people, farmers and citizens in every walk of life," Mahoney stated.

Democratic Year

"We're going to win it big this time," this will be a Democratic year, the three-time loser for state office told newsmen as he filled out his filing papers.

"Both times previously the Eisenhower coalitions made it possible for my opponents to get in, but I expect things to be different this time."

Mahoney said he had taken great encouragement from the Croftmore and Yarrowburgh victories in Wisconsin and Texas. The two Democrats were elected to the Senate last year after several unsuccessful previous races.

Sarver Named President Of Rail Clerks

Charles R. Sarver, city, was elected president of Fort Cumberland Lodge 403, Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, in balloting yesterday among the more than 500 members who are employed on the Cumberland Division of the B&O Railroad.

Sarver won out over R. W. Hixon, city, who was the incumbent. Sarver is employed at the freight station on George Street while Hixon is employed in the Stores Department.

L. A. Hewitt, city, who had been chairman of the Cumberland Division of the Brotherhood for the past 20 years, was defeated in his bid for re-election by Frank Cessna, city. Cessna was elected for a four-year term. Hewitt is employed in the Stores Department while Cessna is chief clerk.

J. H. Fike, city, an employee of the Stores Department, was re-elected for his 20th term as secretary-treasurer without opposition and W. R. Manross, Springfield, was re-elected vice president without opposition.

The officers will be installed in ceremonies January 22 at 7:30 p. m. at the Labor Temple on South Liberty Street. The voting here was conducted at the Labor Temple.

Paw Paw Boy Suffers From Meningitis

A seven-year-old Paw Paw boy has been admitted to Memorial Hospital suffering from spinal meningitis.

The youngster, Michael Kline, son of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Kline, was admitted to the institution Monday by a local physician.

Attaches today report his condition as "poor."

YULETIDE DECORATIONS—These are three of the group of art students at Allegany High School who have lent their talent for decorating the school and other public places in the Christmas season.

Uniontown Man Killed Hunting

A Uniontown man was killed Monday while hunting in nearby Somerset County, Pa.

Victim of the hunting fatality was George Curtis Moyer, 32, who sustained a gunshot wound in the back of his head by an unidentified person while hunting doe in a thickly wooded area between Markleton and Rockwood, about 12 miles from Somerset.

Sheriff Norman F. Walker, Robert H. Halverson, county coroner, and state and county police are investigating the case. Moyer, a son of A. Curtis Moyer, was a former maintenance superintendent of state highways in the Uniontown area.

Moyer was hunting with Frederick Sprout and 10 other men. Police said the hunters separated and that they found Moyer's body while making their way back to the improved highway.

Moyer was a member of Percy Methodist Church and a veteran of World War II, having served three years in the Navy. He was graduated from North Union High School, Class of 1943, and received a bachelor of arts degree in business administration from Waynesburg College in 1950.

In addition to his father, the victim is survived by his widow, Phyllis Porter Moyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Porter. The couple would have celebrated their wedding anniversary on Christmas Day.

He also leaves a son, Jeffrey Kent; two brothers, William E. and James K. Moyer, both of Leontine, and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Josephine Matthews, Leontine.

The body is at the Gleason Funeral Home in Uniontown where services will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. Rev. Raymond Hann will officiate and burial will be in Lafayette Memorial Park.

East Side Offers Holiday Program

East Side School presented a Christmas program yesterday.

Fifth grade children under the guidance of Miss Grace Moore and Miss Betty Morgan presented a sketch, "What is Christmas?" This combined choral reading and carols.

Mrs. Daisy Rosenmerkel's fourth and fifth grade children dramatized "The Parade of the Wooden Soldiers."

Flutophones, bells, triangles, rhythm sticks and the auto-harp were used by Mrs. Gladys Arnold's fourth graders in their program of Christmas music.

Three choral reading selections, "Santa and the Mouse," "A Suit for Santa," "I Like Christmas," were presented by Mrs. Jacqueline Wolfe's fourth graders.

The sixth grade children directed by Miss Orpha Clark and Mr. Robert Miller presented "The Littlest Shepherd," a version of "The First Christmas." Mrs. Margaret Carroll, music resource teacher, assisted the teachers in planning and executing the program.

Local Police Probing Purse Snatching Case

City Police today were investigating a report from a local woman who claimed her purse was stolen in a local store.

Mrs. Clyde Page, 212 Spring Street, said the purse was taken from under a counter and later was found empty in a washroom at the store. The purse had contained a wallet with $15 and some cards and keys.

Also being probed is the theft of two bowling balls from a parked car near the YMCA. The initialed balls belonged to Royce W. Robbison.

Evitts Creek Bridge Paving Work Starts

After a short delay the Cumberland Contracting Company today started to pave the new bridge across Evitts Creek on Route 51 at the southern limits of the city. The paving is expected to be completed later this evening.

The contractor is paving one of the 34 foot wide lanes of the pre-stressed concrete bridge, according to G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission.

Traffic from Cumberland will get to the bridge by a temporary ramp leading to the paved lane of the highway and Chaires said motorists will be asked to use caution in driving over the temporary route which will be used until spring.

The entire bridge will be surfaced and the ramp eliminated, he said, when Evitts Creek is moved to its new channel and permanent fill placed.

Work on the bridge was held up for some time for lack of expansion plates which arrived late last week and have been installed.

The new bridge is almost 100 feet wide and has two 34-foot roadways separated by a 16-foot median strip, plus five-foot pedestrian walks.

It will mark the starting point of the first construction contract on the Cumberland Thruway.

Will Open Bids

The State Roads Commission will open bids January 14 for the part of the Industrial Highway section of the Thruway which will extend from the Evitts Creek Bridge to Crawford Street here.

The City of Cumberland today filled spaces between cleats on the temporary Baltimore Street Bridge with asphalt to lessen the "rock and roll" effect.

Shotgun Wound Fatal For Man

George Eli Moats, 27, a native of Petersburg, W. Va., died of a self-inflicted shotgun wound Saturday while riding in an automobile with a friend near Mt. Solon, Va.

Sheriff John E. Kent of Augusta County, Va., said Moats was employed at Churchville, Va., and was reported despondent for some time.

He was a son of the late Roy and Laurie Moats of Petersburg. His mother died in the Petersburg flood of 1949.

Sheriff Kent said he had been informed that Moats had threatened to take his own life several times before.

Christmas Business In State Good

High Level Held Despite Three Unfavorable Factors

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"The weather or economic conditions never seem to interfere with Christmas buying."

That's the way a Frederick merchant sums up this year's Christmas trade, and others throughout Maryland generally agree. Business is as good this year as last despite three factors which every merchant from the smallest shopkeeper to the president of the largest department store will cite:

1. The lateness of Thanksgiving this year shortened the Christmas shopping season by six days.

2. The Dec. 4 and 5 snowstorm and nearly a week of rain which followed kept shoppers home, postponing, although not curtailing, their Christmas spending.

3. Money is tighter and the spenders are more cautious.

Hard To Compare

The consensus of merchants in Annapolis, Baltimore, Cambridge, Cumberland, Frederick and Hagerstown was that all the above factors, shorter season, weather and general economics, have more or less retarded the Christmas buying spree, and make it hard to compare it with last year's. But most say that when the figures are in for November and December and are compared with the same months last year, sales will be about even with 1956's Christmas sales. About half will tell you even or slightly higher. The other half will tell you even or slightly lower.

Last summer's drought on the Eastern Shore, unemployment and even Russia's Sputniks were cited by a few merchants as factors affecting sales.

Prices—all agree—are about the same as last Christmas, a few items higher, a few down but the general level about the same.

Toy Sales Boom

Toy sales are booming everywhere in the state. "But then we have lots more children every year," one merchant noted. Clothing sales also are good, although they are better in Baltimore than in outlying cities. In men's clothing, the buying emphasis has been on casual or sports clothes, rather than suits. And outdoor wear, jackets, coats and the like have been moving rapidly.

In women's apparel, the luxury items are popular—fur stoles, fur pieces and fur coats leading the list, with fancy attire second and including such items as cocktail dresses and cashmere skirts.

One Salisbury merchant reported a run on $70 cocktail dresses and mink collars.

With the exception of one leading Baltimore women's clothier, there was unanimous reaction that the chemise—"the sack with a hole for the head" as one Hagerstown merchant described it—is not going over too well in Maryland. The merchant who took exception to this said the straight-line dresses from the 1920's are "tremendously popular with Baltimore's younger set."

Different Buying

Baltimore merchants found luxury items in all lines moving very well while there was less emphasis on these items in Annapolis, Cambridge, Cumberland, Frederick and Hagerstown.

Television sets are a No. 1 seller everywhere. And the Baltimore manager of a national chain with three suburban stores in Maryland's largest city found Hi-Fi sets one of the best-moving items he handles.

With few exceptions, store managers throughout the state find the "better quality merchandise" most in demand. Next are the cheapest lines while the medium priced merchandise generally is remaining on the shelves.

One Baltimore department store executive summed it up this way: "The volume of shoppers is down, but the average sale is up. People seem to be buying what they want and they apparently want the higher priced, quality items."

Not As Rushed

"We're not as rushed as last year, but the people are buying 'treat' to each one present."

Baptist Chapel Plans Program

A Christmas pageant will be presented Sunday at 7:30 p. m. at the Bedford Road Baptist Chapel. The Nativity scene will be portrayed with costumed characters.

Bids Due Soon For Office At ABL Facility

Bids Due January 7; Space Needed To House New Employees

Allegany Ballistics Laboratory will get additional office space. Bids are being received by the Bureau of Yards and Docks of the Department of the Navy, at Norfolk for a second floor addition to the present concrete block structure at Pinto.

Bids will be opened at 2 p. m. January 7 in the District Public Works Office, Fifth Naval District at the Norfolk Navy Base.

A spokesman at ABL said the increased office space has been sought for some time, and added that there has been an increase in personnel at the Hercules Powder Company installation since this summer.

Many of these new employees are technical personnel who are located in the main office. ABL is one of the two companies in the nation making the third stage rocket for the Vanguard missile. The rocket used in the recent test was made by Grand Central Company of California, the other producer.

The second floor addition will be 62 feet by 38 feet. It is to have masonry walls, dry wall interior partitions, acoustical tile ceiling, insulation, steel bar joists, metal decking, built-up roof, wood sash, steel fire escape, and concrete, heating, electrical and other incidental related work.

Plans and specifications are available to contractors in the Fifth Naval District Public Works Office.

Sleet, Rain Turn To Ice In Garrett

The section west of Frostburg had a covering of ice this morning as sleet followed by rain during the night froze in 30-degree temperatures.

By noon, however, the State Roads Commission reported, the highways in the affected area were in good shape, as rising temperatures and traffic broke up the ice.

There was still some ice along the side of the roads in Garrett County.

East of Frostburg to Cumberland there was ice this morning in patches on bridges and in spots.

The mountains east of here also were icy in spots, the SRC reported.

The general outlook for Maryland is for occasional rain with occasional sleet mixed in the northern tier of counties.

In Allegany and Garrett counties there is to be mostly cloudy and warmer tomorrow with occasional showers.

There was a half inch of snow around Hancock and Hagerstown had a quarter of an inch this morning.

Trio Turns Out Weekly Newspaper

CHINCOTEAGUE, Va. (AP)—Two women and a man with a bit of printer's ink in their blood put out this island's weekly paper—and do it while holding down other jobs.

The Beacon's 4,500 copies are circulated free. At Christmas the paper asks for a $1 per family donation. This, together with the Chamber of Commerce help, permits the weekly to break even.

Mrs. Melvina Shepherd is also clerk to the mayor and council and is active in numerous organizations. The 40-year-old editor together with the advertising manager Mrs. Rhoda Derrickson and business manager James Moore, get $15 a year for putting out the paper.

Mrs. Derrickson is a 39-year-old housewife. Moore is manager of a theater.

The three launched the Beacon five years ago without professional newspaper experience to give the island its own paper.

One of its biggest news sources is nearby Chincoteague Naval Air Station.

Names Same As Town

BELLEFONTAINE, Ohio (AP)—A family of five who recently moved here from Long Island, N. Y., told the Chamber of Commerce they think Bellefontaine is the "dream" place to live.

They may be slightly prejudiced, though. Their last name is Bellefontaine.

more expensive items," echoed an Annapolis shop keeper.

and a Cumberland jewelry store proprietor said: "People are looking for quality. There is no resistance to high price items."

However, a Cambridge merchant finds the reverse true in his store. He said his customers are more dollar conscious. "They're spending one dollar or two dollars instead of five dollars."

Cambridge is one city included in the survey where the outlook was not overly optimistic.

Richard Blumenthal, president of the Cambridge-Dorchester Chamber of Commerce, said business will not equal Christmas 1956. He blamed too many rainy weekends, fear and uncertainty in the minds of buyers, last summer's drought and a three-month slowdown in building because of a Health Department order involving septic tanks.

Tight Money Blamed

Two Cambridge merchants thought sales would be off this year. One said as much as 5 to 10 per cent less.

In Salisbury, one merchant blamed tight money, unemployment and "failure of the U. S. to cope with Russia's scientific gains" as factors which will make this year's Christmas trade worse than 1956.

Unemployment claims in Hagerstown were reported twice the number at this time last year.

By contrast, a Baltimore merchant said he could find nothing wrong with the city or the country's economy. "Cautious buying he said, is a healthy sign. He too cited the Russian Sputniks but said they only served as excuses for venting criticism."

"If there's anything wrong with this country it's 99 per cent psychological," he added. "People are just cantankerous now... they're critical but don't know why. They just want to criticize."

Optimistic Here

This psychology, he indicated, accounts for quality buying this year.

The same merchant, incidentally, thought his Christmas business generally would be better than last year.

Cumberland merchants also were optimistic, agreeing their sales probably would top 1956.

None of the merchants claimed any additional emphasis on promotion this year. Most said they probably had done less because of the shorter buying season.

Regardless of the slight variance in outlook from one part of the state to another, stores everywhere were well stocked for Christmas and report their stocks moving.

"People will always find some way to buy for Christmas," an Annapolis store manager concluded.

SRC Reports More Traffic On Highway

BALTIMORE (AP)—The State Roads Commission says Maryland 5 east of Waldorf got 55 per cent more travel during the first 10 months of this year than the corresponding period a year ago.

Of the state's four toll bridges, the Chesapeake Bay led with a 15.9 per cent increase over 1956 travel. The SRC said the statewide increase for roads was 6 per cent.

Jury Unable To Reach Verdict In Murder Case

BALTIMORE (AP)—A jury has been dismissed after announcing it was hopelessly deadlocked and could not reach a decision in the murder trial of a Baltimore woman.

The defendant, Mrs. Doris O. Melvin, 40, was charged with shooting her 35-year-old husband, George, during an argument at a tavern they operated. She testified a pistol accidentally discharged killing her husband when he thrust it into her hand and dared her to shoot.

The State did not ask for a verdict of first-degree murder.

The jury deliberated three hours before announcing it was deadlocked. No date has been set for a retrial.

Sewage Meet Tomorrow

The mayors and councils of the three communities in the Tri-Towns will meet tomorrow at 9 p. m. in the Westernport Council chambers to discuss the proposal of the Upper Potomac River Commission for free sewage treatment.

The board presented a plan which would enable Piedmont, Westernport and Luke to process their normal sewage in the waste-treatment plant without cost.

The facilities are being constructed at the Luke Mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

The only financial outlay required of the towns would be the costs of additions and extensions to facilities needed to collect and deliver their sewage to the plant.

Under the plan, the mill, which will use the facilities to treat its industrial waste, has agreed to pay all construction costs and normal operating and maintenance charges over a 40-year plan.

The river commission will finance the plant by the sale of bonds which would be redeemed with revenues collected from the paper company.

Woodmen are Santa's Helpers

In hundreds of communities, Woodmen Camps bring Christmas cheer to children, the aged, disabled and less fortunate.

In North Carolina, for example, Woodmen Camps have raised thousands of dollars for their annual Christmas parties at more than 20 orphanages. Some 1,500 boys and girls will receive clothing, toys, candy and fruits.

Other Camps participate in the Society's varied program of helpful Yuletide activities, including those in Chattanooga, Tenn., where hundreds of pairs of shoes are given needy youngsters. Fellow Woodmen everywhere receiving hospital and outpatient care provided free by the Society for victims of pulmonary tuberculosis, and others disabled or unfortunate, are also remembered with Yuletide gifts.

This is part of the Society's year-round program of civic and humanitarian services, the exclusive "plus" of the life insurance it provides its members at cost.

Fire Department Member Arrested

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — Police Chief Bruce E. Parsons reported that a fifth member of the Parkersburg fire department was arrested yesterday on a charge of receiving stolen property.

The man was identified as Ralph E. Grimm, a private at station No. 1.

Jack V. George, 30, also a station No. 1 private, was arrested and charged with petit larceny late Monday. George was released on $50 bond.

Parsons said both men went before Municipal Court Judge J. Fred Earley yesterday.

The police chief said that about 8 or 9 members of the 42-man fire department would be implicated in so-called "fire sale" transactions with merchandise stolen from the Sears and Roebuck Co.

Sears' officials have said it has been customary to hire firemen during the Christmas season.

Final Nat King Cole Show Makes Sad News

By JACK O'BRIAN
NEW YORK (INS)—The 60th and final Nat King Cole show last night was sad news for sore ears. Nat's brand of vocal cream was always welcome.

The record and album plugs on TV shows have got entirely out of hand. No musical show can hold any pace and fun when it has to stop to plug each performer's newest disc.

And they get paid, besides! Kitty Carlisle's attitude on "Tell The Truth" is wonderful to behold—like a dowager studying the natives of some primitive land her cruise ship is visiting.

Red Skelton & Mickey Rooney were very funny; and clean.

Roger Williams joins Perry Como Jan. 4.

Tom Ewell will emcee NBC-TV's Jan. 5 Chevy Show, with Tom Raitt, Anna Marie Albertini and Shirley McLaine.

Lee Marvin, star of "M-Squad," is just a swift face in the crowd if you look fast during the movie "Raintree County," but they do things much faster in TV, where he's become star of the NBC-TV show since those so-near extra days.

TV Producer Philip Barry Jr., son of the late stylish playwright (Philadelphia Story, Holiday, Animal Kingdom), fled the wreckage of the Alcoa-Goodyear TV Theatre to MGM where he's working as a writer.

Bob Hope has every joke he's uttered, and some he hasn't since 1934 stashed in a vault, all insured for a quarter of a million bob.

If you've wondered who gets the lush job of selecting the luscious babes for the Bob Cummings show—it's Mrs. Mary Cummings, who handles all hubby's business, contracts, hiring, firing, and keeping an eye on any beautiful babes who might get ideas.

Lou Boudreau will broadcast the Chicago Cubs' games next fall season for Chicago's Station WGN.

Elaine Malbin, after her triumph in NBC's TV opera "Dialogues Of The Carmelites," guest stars Thursday night with Pat Boone and Jan. 6 on the Voice of Firestone.

NBC's syndicated film series "Boots & Saddles" had its own version of New York's subway strike: One script concerned Apache Indians, "B. & S." had its complement of Indians ready to bite the dramaturgical dust until the management was visited on location by some Apaches who said the redskins at the ready were Navajos, and no red-blooded redskin would stand for a Navajo making like an Apache, and before you could say Geronimo, the Navajos were paid off and the Apaches won their saddled sidown.

Geronimo's grandson, 59-year-old Chief Geronimo Kuthie, will have a brief role in Playhouse 90's Dec. 26, "Lone Woman." No one will steal the job from him—it's already been filmed and he's received his regular actor's wampum, less Social Security and withholding.

Snow Maiden Reported In North Japan

TOKYO — (INS) — Abominable Snow-Man, make way for a lady competitor!

This lass goes by the name of "Yuki-Onna," or Snow Maiden. Her habitat is Japan's northeastern districts and the coastal regions of Honshu and Hokkaido along the Sea of Japan. She is supposed to spell trouble for anyone who crosses her path.

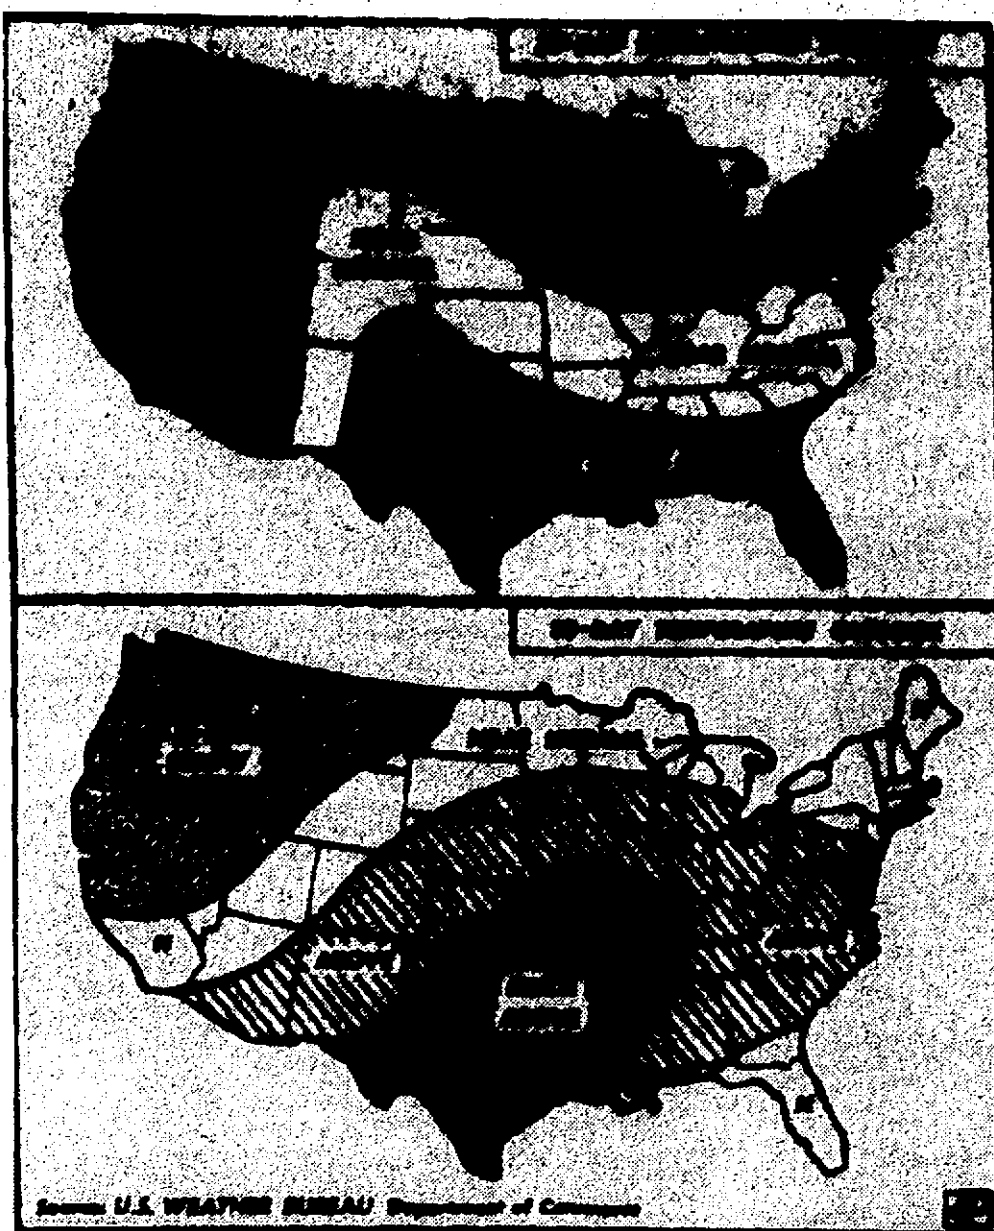

No intrepid explorers, however, have mapped plans for tracking down this abominable Snow-Woman.

For those versed in Japanese folk-lore figure that Yuki-Onna is purely the product of over-imaginative farmers who spend at least three months of each year trapped by snow.

In most parts of Japan, farmers welcome snow as an omen of a good harvest. But in these frigid northern areas, snow is a major obstacle and enemy.

Gets Tired Easier

Singer Hard Put With Her $246 A Week

LONDON — (INS) — A blonde British singer wept on the witness stand as she told income tax officials that she was just scraping by on $246 a week.

Karen Greer shattered a lot of girlish dreams of theatrical fame and fortune when she claimed that she had only 14 cents a day for herself. This claim was made in reply to the tax department's charge that she owed more than a thousand dollars in back income taxes.

Karen told a court that the £88 ($246) a week she received for a 15-week singing engagement may have looked like a lot of money to the average person, but it wasn't much after expenses were paid. Then she offered a lesson in the economics of show business.

Of the £88, she said, she gave seven to her mother. The rest was spent on: Cosmetics — £4 Musical arrangements — £4 Photographs for fans — £4 Agent's fees — over £8 Stage dresses — £30 Taxes to theater — £4 Tips — over £4

The remaining £20, she said, went in similar expenses. She listed her assets at £1.40 and added: "I don't smoke, I don't drink, I cannot afford to go to the hairdresser so I do it myself. And I spend about 30 shillings ($4.20) a week on my clothes — that's less than any typist.

Judge Rules

(Continued from Page 14) the use of the complainant's funds, Judge Harris said, for several years and should not now complain if he must pay this indebtedness.

Weatherholt said in his dispute of the claim that he had fulfilled a moral obligation to his policy holders in using the premium monies to buy other insurance for them when the New York company went into receivership.

Ustinov Still Getting Plaudits For TV Role

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (INS)—Peter Ustinov's portrait of Dr. Samuel Johnson on Omnibus (NBC-TV) probably was the outstanding acting performance of the year on television.

In deciding to dramatize the life of the sharp-tongued 18th century wit and writer, producer Robert Saudek and his associates ran some risk. There seems, superficially, to be little of dramatic tension or widespread appeal in the life of Johnson.

A fine script by James Lee and superb production and acting demonstrated, however, just how erroneous a superficial glance may be. Nevertheless, "The Life of Samuel Johnson" would not have been such memorable television entertainment without the performance of Ustinov.

Many of those who were exposed to Johnson first in English literature courses probably considered him a contentious old bore. But Ustinov, working from Lee's script and well supported by Kenneth Haigh as a loyal James Boswell, created new dimensions to his character. From Johnson's agonizing self-appraisals, and acute sensitivity there was created a warm and sympathetic portrait of the man.

One of the best aspects of the Omnibus production was its realistic portrayal of 18th century English life. Who would have believed that a large audience of present-day Americans could care what Johnson said to Lord Chesterfield? Yet this splendid program obviously made them care.

Jacoby On Bridge

Disaster Loomed With Trump Lead
By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
With any opening but a trump, South would have had no trouble with his contract. All he would need do would be to cash both black aces in dummy, discarding a club from his own hand and then make all nine trumps on a cross ruff. There also would be a double dummy play for six with a heart lead if any of your readers want to work it out.
West did lead a trump and South saw that he had no value play for the contract. He could have settled for down one but he decided on an all-out play that would require both luck and an error by the defense if it were to succeed.
South won the opening lead in his own hand, led a club and finessed dummy's nine. East won with the queen and led a second trump.
South won, ruffed a heart in

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 5. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

SRC Plans Development Engineers In Counties

HAGERSTOWN (AP)—A State Roads Commission official said yesterday the SRC's new Development Engineering Department plans to assign one man to each of the 23 counties as soon as personnel are available.

C. S. Linville, head of the department, outlined its expansion plans at a meeting of the Washington County commissioners.

Linville said the department, which developed informally previously in the Baltimore and Washington metropolitan areas, is aimed at preventing construction along Maryland highways from interfering with possible future road work.

When a man is assigned here, Linville told the commissioners, the SRC would like two types of plans from developers planning construction along highway areas.

The first would be a site plan, oriented with the nearby highway, so that the SRC can determine if buildings might conflict with such future projects as road widening or relocating.

Later, a detailed plan would be provided so the state could approve design and location of roadways connecting with state highways.

On a long-range basis, Linville said, the state would like Washington County to turn over building permit applications before permits are issued, so the SRC could check the building plans.

Woman Leaves Large Number Grandchildren

GAFFNEY, S. C. (AP)—A dozen children and 214 grandchildren are listed as survivors of Mrs. Emma Littlejohn of Gaffney.

Making up the total are seven sons, five daughters, 41 grandchildren, 151 great-grandchildren and 22 great-great-grandchildren. There was no record of Mrs. Littlejohn's age.

Girl Friend Can Be Made Beneficiary

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Can a married man change the beneficiary of his life insurance from his wife to his "girl friend"?

Yes, was the ruling of the Maryland Court of Appeals in a case from Montgomery County Circuit Court.

Mrs. Elise M. Chapman of Silver Spring had asked that Prudential Insurance Co. of America be ordered to pay her the $6,000 value of her late husband's policy. But the court ruled it was legal for Otis Chapman, former Washington policeman, to make Miss Marion K. Mellott, a Washington nurse, his beneficiary.

The appellate court said it was not aware of "any principle of public policy . . . that prevents a married man from designating any woman, other than his wife or perhaps a relative, as the beneficiary under an insurance policy upon his life."

School Holiday Time Unchanged

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany County public schools, said there will be no extension of the Christmas holiday period.

Some sentiment had been developed to extend the holiday to include the Thursday and Friday after New Year's Day.

Webster said the schedule for the school year calling for 182 days of classes was made up last summer. He explained that the contract with the school bus operators calls for 182 school days a year and they are paid on that basis. The school lunch subsidy also calls for 182 school days, he added, and these funds are needed for operation of the program. There also is a chance that schools may have to be closed because of bad winter weather. Public schools will close at the end of classes this Friday and will resume on the morning of January 2.

Billboards on outside streets, roads and plazas are banned in Denmark. Such signs are permitted only on premises of a business.
